1. Preface

These Conference/Seminar Guidelines have been prepared by the Section on Professional Associations of the International Council of Archives to help Professional Archival Associations as well as others in organising, planning and developing Conferences/Seminars from a half day workshop for a few attendees to a large conference with thousands of attendees.

These guidelines will be reviewed at regular intervals to reflect the ever changing situations evolving around the planning, organization and coordination of such a premier educational event.

This is not an all-inclusive document, but aims to provide the necessary guidance and information to Conference/Seminar team members who are delegated the ultimate responsibility to build, sustain and make this a successful and profitable event.

The Section on Professional Associations of the International Council on Archives would like to thank all the archival and records management associations as well as all individuals that have provided inputs for these Conference/Seminar Guidelines. Their inputs have been very helpful and have contributed in making these guidelines much more practical and useful.

A special thank you to the members of the Board of the Section on Professional Associations:

Yvonne Bos Rops (President), Margaret Turner (Secretary), Marie Allen, Karen Benedict, Marion Beyea, Gilbert Coutaz, Kathryn Dan, Jean Luc Eichenlaub, Alfred Garcia, Isabella, Orifice, Wadislaw Stepniak, Reimer Witt

Section 1 -- Introduction

1. Introduction

These guidelines were prepared by the Section on Professional Associations of the International Council of Archives to foster the following pre-requisite:

- i) to provide an educational forum for the promotion and advancement of archival management principles, methods and practices to all sectors in communities and countries from around the world;
- ii) to encourage full participation at all levels that is, not limited professionally, nationally, internationally or geographically; and
- iii) to generate revenues for the ongoing administration of the initiatives of the organizers of such events.

2. Objectives

In general archival conferences/Seminars should have the following objectives:

- i) to promote and encourage sharing of information amongst attendees;
- ii) to provide attendees with educational sessions and sometimes technological displays encompassing the best and most current information in the field of archival management;
- iii) to generate income and/or profits, if allowed by the by-laws of the host Association , as a means to fund future operations and activities of professional associations;
- iv) to solicit increasing membership through vigorous promotion of The International Council of Archives aims and goals.

3. Delegation of Authority

The control and management of a Conference/Seminar is with the professional association which can in turn delegate part or the complete organization to a local committee of the Association.

All contracts must be approved and signed by the Director of Conference/Seminar unless delegated otherwise but in all cases you should check the Association constitution. No one else is authorized to make any agreement(s) on behalf of the Association without the written consent of the Director of Conference/Seminar. There must be no misunderstanding regarding this statement. Original signed contract(s) shall be maintained by the Director of Conference/Seminar.

Whenever feasible or possible, it is strongly recommended that the organization of a conference/seminar be contracted out to professional organizers. However, in all cases the scientific or program part should be under the complete control of the Association organizing the event.

Section 2 -- Conference/Seminar Options

While these guidelines cover most situations for the organization of a large conference with thousands of attendees, it is recognized that the organization of a smaller conference or a seminar, even though as important, doesn't require the in-depth details that are provided in this manual. So, to facilitate the search of those organizing a smaller function, we are providing various options with corresponding sections and items in the guidelines that should be considered for each situation. It is also understood that in the organization of a smaller conference/seminar, one person or two rather than a committee would be doing a few or many functions.

5. Large Conference

This would be attended by more than 300 attendees and would last 2 or more days. It is recommended that all sections and items be considered.

Section 3 -- Conference/Seminar Sites

1. Site Selection

The site selection shall be determined by the Association organizing the event. However this could be delegated to the organizing committee but the final decision should rest with the Association.

The selection of a convenient and affordable site is often the single most important factor in a successful conference/seminar. When selecting a site the following should be considered: what is the accessibility to the targeted attendees, have conferences been held there recently, any sightseeing opportunities, etc...

2. Conference/Seminar Dates

The Association organizing the event will decide on the dates of the conference/seminar taking into consideration the various factors that could reduce the attendance such as: other conferences/seminars that would attract same attendees, religious and/or traditional holidays, the Association constitution, etc...

3. Selection Process

The process of selecting the site should begin at least three years in advance of the dates the Conference/seminar is to be held, in the case of a large conference. The Association organizing the the event and/or the Director of Conference/seminar, have the responsibility for approving the site and considering sites for future conferences/seminars.

The Association organizing the event or the Director of Conference/seminars begins its selection process by reviewing current trade show magazines, hotel and convention facilities guides, published by market specialists. Certain sites are automatically eliminated, due to their travel distance for attendees. In addition, the many Hotel and Convention Center's Sales Directors frequently contact the Associations or the Director of Conference/seminar to provide updated information about their properties and the availability of dates. The use of Universities facilities, in the off season, is another option that could prove to be quite economical.

4. Site Specifications

A site inspection checklist should be completed for each site visits (sample at Appendix "A"). The checklist allows for information gathering on Hotel(s), the Convention Centre and Convention and Visitors Bureau. It provides an overview of the facilities and more.

a) Exhibits/Trade Fair

Exhibitors provide us, not only with a wealth of information about new product lines, but also with additional source of revenues for the Association. Target those Exhibitors that might participate in your conference/seminar at least one year before the event and pay particular attention to potential local Exhibitors.

b) Facilities

For the most part, Hotel facilities in major Cities are more than adequate to hold a conference of a small or large magnitude. By having the greater portion of the attendees grouped in/or adjacent to the Headquarters' hotel or the Convention Centre, the need to provide transportation is non-existent.

The size and number of meeting rooms is an important factor when selecting a site. Conference/seminar attendance projections fluctuate and require that seating be provided for a minimum of attendees who will participate at sessions and luncheon functions.

An important element when selecting a conference/seminar site is a facility that can also handle a trade show (exhibits), if such a show is desired by the organizers, and provide enough flexibility to seat all the expected attendees for luncheon, plenary sessions, opening address or other functions.

There are various additional elements that are reviewed when selecting a Conference/seminar site. These are accessibility by any airlines, trains and taxis to the selected conference site; availability of recreational activities; housing and registration assistance provided by the local Convention Bureau; and sight seeing tours offered by local Travel Agencies.

c) Accommodations/Expectations

The cost associated with the selection of a site for future conferences/seminars is equally important. It shall be noted that within a given city, negotiations between the Association organizing the event or the Director of Conference/seminar and the Hotel(s)/Convention Centre Management are undertaken and decisions are made as to what can be expected from the potential host. Complimentary accommodations, reduced room rates, complimentary VIP transportation, etc., are the most common negotiable items being offered, but one should not be limited to only those. Local tourist organizations could be quite helpful at this stage.

d) Request for Proposal

The Association organizing the event or the Director of Conference/seminar is to prepare and submit a Request for Proposal to selected Cities and requests that potential hotel(s) and/or Convention Centre returns a completed detailed submission by a predetermined date (sample at Appendix "B").

After receiving the submissions, all individual submissions are analyzed to ensure that the minimum criteria are adhered to for further consideration. That is, following the analysis of each proposal, the top three (3) are then scheduled for an on-site visit, if feasible.

The Organizers are to communicate with the selected potential Hotel(s) and/or Convention Centre and make the necessary arrangements to visit the potential sites to view their facilities and obtain additional information which could impact on the decision process. A matrix is then developed to compare and determine which site is the most attractive, effective and cost beneficial for the event.

e) Site Approval

*F*inal approval of any conference site is the responsibility of the Association organizing the event in consultation with the Director of Conference/seminar or the appropriate committee. Once approval is obtained, the Director of Conference/seminar or the appropriate committee is to notify the selected Hotel and/or Convention Centre of the Association's decision (see sample at Appendix "C"). All other sites that were being considered are also notified in writing to dissolve any binding agreement which release any tentative reservations that had been booked on our behalf vis-à-vis any of their facilities (see sample at Appendix "D").

f) Formal Agreement

A formal written agreement or contract should be signed between the Association organizing the event and the selected Hotel or Convention Centre, outlining the specific items as listed in the Hotel proposal and the required items for the organizers.

Section 4 -- Conference/Seminar Contingency Plan

1. Contingency Plan

In the event of a natural disaster such as flood, fire, earthquake, etc., in the City which has tentatively been committed for the Conference/seminar, it is important and necessary that the following contingency plan be implemented for precautionary measures:

a) Local Representatives

The Organizers shall confer with the Local representatives; any on-site disaster relief organization's; the designated officials; and representatives of the City's Tourism industry regarding the said disaster, if deemed necessary.

b) Hotel and/or Conference Centre

The Organizers shall communicate with the management of the Hotel(s) and/or Convention Centre to make the necessary arrangements to tour, if feasible, the damaged Conference/seminar site and assess the impact caused by the disaster.

c) Decision

The Organizers shall decide as to whether or not to proceed or postpone the Conference/seminar at the scheduled site.

d) Conference/seminar Attendees

The Organizers shall provide in writing to each registrant information regarding the disaster and advise them whether the event will take place as well as new site and dates.

2. Emergency Measures

In addition to the above the Conference/seminar Team is also expected to adhere to the following instructions as a means to ensure that Conference/seminar attendees are properly directed as to how to vacate the premises for their own safety.

a) Hotel / Convention Centre

- i. The Organizers shall be cognizant of the emergency plans of the Hotel(s) and Convention Centre facilities.
- ii. The Committee Chairpersons shall be familiar with the Hotel(s) and Convention Centre floor plans, especially the Exit doors to ensure conference/seminar attendees security.
- iii. The Organizers shall designate an off-site location in the vicinity of the Hotel(s) and/or Convention Centre where Committee Chairperson's would be instructed to meet immediately in case of a major crisis requiring immediate attention.

b) Registration Funds

- i. The Registration Chairperson and/or Treasurer shall immediately be responsible to gather all moneys, cheques and valuables and ensure that they are properly safeguarded off-site.

3. Cancellation of Event Insurance Policy

A "Cancellation of Event Insurance Policy" shall be purchased, if and when feasible, to cover the loss of revenue due to cancellation, interruption, postponement, or failure to vacate the premises in the event caused by circumstances beyond control of the Association organizing the event such as, earthquake, adverse weather, judicial injunctions, labour strikes, etc. This insurance policy should also cover additional expenses that would be necessary to re-schedule or postpone the Conference/seminar for no more than sixty (60) days. The Insurance Policy should be considered mostly for a large conference.

Section 5 -- Conference/Seminar Structure

The organizing Association through its President has the complete authority for organizing the event. It shall be approved by the President of the Association following recommendations made from the Director of Conference/seminar, the Program Chairperson and Committees Chairpersons. In developing the theme, every effort will be made to support the educational nature of the Conference/seminar and most of all, to relate to the Host City's renowned attractions.

The theme and artwork will be developed as "Clip Art" and provided for use in the marketing efforts.

3. Selection of Speakers

Speakers and session leaders are a major factor in the success of any conference/seminar. They should be selected and invited according to their ability to contribute to the theme, their stature and background in the profession and their speaking competence.

The primary source of speakers could be from within the Association. Other sources include: members of other professional organizations, universities and colleges, government agencies and recommendations made by the Program Committee. The use of supplier/vendor representatives or professional consultants should be kept to a minimum.

Speakers should be invited early, (12)to (18) months in advance of the conference/seminar dates. This is usually initiated by a "Call for Abstracts". The Call for Abstracts provides potential speakers or session leaders with the opportunity to submit a submission for one or several presentations. The submission should describe the speaker or session leader's experience and exposure, the chosen topic and a session synopsis which is to reflect the subject matter to be covered. Speakers are also required to submit synopsis or text, or both, for the Proceedings manual. The Program Chairperson will establish time limits for presentations.

4. Planning

Preparation for a conference/seminar should begin as early as possible that is, at least eighteen (18) months prior to Conference/seminar scheduled dates. For large conferences (i.e. 1000 or more attendees) the preparation should start 3 or 4 years prior to the scheduled dates. The Director of Conference/seminar will meet with all Chairpersons at least fifteen (15) months prior to the scheduled dates to discuss and initiate all aspect of their involvement.

The following is a general outline describing some of the issues to be considered in the preparation of a Conference/seminar. Many of these subjects are addressed in further detail within these guidelines:

- a) While establishing the budget, the Director of Conference/seminar in consultation with the President of the Association are to consider what is the maximum fee that can be charged, expected profit margin, etc., then determine final fee structure based on established costs and desired results;
- b) The Director of Conference/seminar is to gather a group of individuals who will serve as Chairperson of committees. The selection criteria of such individuals must require that they have in the past demonstrated their abilities and most of all, indicated a keen interest in taking an active part in such an event. It is important that these energetic people be involved in all the activities involved with the Conference/seminar planning. They ~~should~~ be representative of all levels of the profession as well as geographical locations;
- c) The brochures and publications must be devised in accordance with the established theme and all marketing information used to publicize such an event must be complete and accurate to eliminate unnecessary inquiries;
- d) Appropriate mailing lists must be established for pre-publicity and distribution of brochures and publications;
- e) A brochure with a covering letter must be forwarded to the selected speakers. The covering letter should define requirements such as transportation, facilities, A/V equipment, etc.;
- F) Several weeks prior to Conference/seminar dates, telephone each individual speakers to confirm their commitment, A/V equipment, travel arrangements, and any other details;
- g) The Hotel(s) and/or Convention Center Management must be contacted to ensure that all meeting and facility arrangements previously agreed upon have been carried out;

- h) Name tags, tag holders and portfolios/pouches or bags must be obtained or purchased for attendees;
- i) All rooms must be verified beforehand to ensure that adequate lighting, heat, and ventilation are available;
- j) It is essential that session and Conference/seminar evaluation forms be gathered from attendees and returned for evaluation by the assigned Committee;
- k) Personal thank you letters must be written and sent to all speakers and Committee members; and
- l) A final report must be compiled outlining the procedures followed in planning the Conference/seminar. This should be completed by all Committees, thus ensuring continued success in future conference/seminar planning.

The above are matters of some importance that will contribute to the provision of a first class premier educational event as well as ensuring that attendees are cordially welcomed, attended to and given what they expect, thus providing them with an extreme feeling of self-achievement and satisfaction which will further encourage their attendance in future conferences/seminar.

Approach local computer suppliers/vendors for loan of computer hardware for use at the Registration Desk on the understanding that their name will be prominently displayed.

Arrange for airport pick-up for as many speakers as possible, attempt to negotiate with a car-rental company the use of a vehicle at no charge in exchange for publicity.

Produce "Exhibit Entrance" cards for Exhibitors so that they may imprint their own name/logo and used as promotion of the event while distributing them to customers.

Serve coffee in the rear of the Exhibit area so that Conference/seminar attendees are required to circulate amongst the displays.

Avoid the use of buses for sessions, division of attendees into groups, and any event reliant upon weather conditions while planning social activities (ex. Theme Night).

Participation of Official representatives at Opening Ceremonies is strongly encouraged and every efforts by the Host Committee should be undertaken to make formal invitation as early as possible in the year prior to Conference/seminar dates.

Formal introductions and thank you notes for speakers should be scheduled in advance under the responsibility of the Program Chairperson.
