Commentary

Human Rights and Reconciliation

- Congo’s government wanting to resume executions and the horrors of the trans-Atlantic slave trade reveal concerns about human rights abuses and the ethical considerations around punitive justice.

- Historic images of pre-occupation Palestine and a podcast on Liberia’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) process highlight the ongoing struggle for reconciliation and the legacy of past conflicts.

- The discussions around reparation for historical injustices such as the Windrush Compensation Scheme of the forced emigration of Scots to Canada, and compensation for traditional fishing practices in NSW show a global attempt to address past wrongs.

Cultural Heritage and Archival Integrity

- Topics like the repatriation of a sixteenth-century manuscript to Peru, the plight of Palestinian cultural heritage, and museums shuttering exhibits underscore the importance of preserving cultural heritage and the ethical complexities surrounding it.
• The protection of digital information as noted in the topics about AI transforming legal texts and vulnerability of Israel State Archives, reflects the modern challenges faced by archival institutions in preserving and making accessible historical data.

Government Transparency and Accountability

• The US president’s new executive order on personal data protection, and Belgium’s failure to publish a report on colonial history point to issues of government transparency and the public's right to know.

• Cases like Germany examining its Bundesbank’s roots and the shadowy nature of Operation Legacy address the need for accountability in acknowledging past associations with oppressive regimes or policies.

• The need for an open internet and the role of social media in activism (as demonstrated in how Sudanese rights defenders are risking their lives to document the war), along with the concerns about government abuse of power (as in the case with the UK National Archives document on election interference), emphasizes the fight against censorship and the promotion of free expression.

These themes intersect at the crucial junction of historical truth, the quest for justice, and the necessity for open and honest governance.

SAHR News

– The section has submitted a response to the UN call for comment on arms trafficking and mercenaries and mercenary related actors. This is an issue where good record keeping is critical and our comment focuses on strengthening this aspect of the guidance.

– SAHR now has a translation policy. This was discussed with the ICA Secretariat in Paris and it complies with ICA constitutional requirements. The SAHR officers are developing a priority list for translations of SAHR texts. However, we are always keen to hear from members who wish to see particular texts translated into specific languages, so do let us know.

– The SAHR Executive was pleased to hear that the free open access version in English of the book on Archives and Human Rights (Routledge) had been downloaded 2,312 times in the 3 years from its launch to the end of 2023. The book is now also available in French and in Spanish.

– SAHR keeps growing! Between January and March 2024, a further 48 members joined us. This means that there are now over 240 members, with many more observers and friends of SAHR.

Business

UN rights expert David Boyd: ‘Businesses are treating the environment like a free dumping ground’. Over half of global industrial greenhouse gas emissions from 1988 to 2015 can be traced back to some 25 fossil fuel companies, while the richest one per cent spew as much emissions as the poorest 66 per cent. These are some of the findings from the UN's top expert on human rights and the environment's latest report to the Human Rights Council. [Langrand, Michelle], 2024-03-08, Geneva Solutions, [Worldwide]

Censorship

La censure a continué de s'accentuer dans les bibliothèques américaines en 2023. Les interdictions et les tentatives d'interdiction de livres ont augmenté aux États-Unis l’année dernière, continuant d’établir des niveaux records. [ICI.Radio-Canada.ca, Zone Arts-; Associated Press], 2024-03-14, Radio-Canada, [United States of America]

Children's Rights

"We hope to offer renewed hope of discovering ancestors and even new connections to families across the globe.". Around 15,000 young, vulnerable Scots were shipped to Canada alone in a forced emigration scheme designed to improve their life chances, but some were never heard from again. [Campsie, Alison], 2024-03-20, The Scotsman, [United Kingdom]

Climate Change

[dw.com - La rédaction francophone], 2024-03-08, dw.com, [Cameroun]

Morocco-Algeria Tensions: Royal Archivist Recalls Morocco’s Historical Claims to Eastern Sahara. Bahija Simou, the director of Morocco’s Royal Archives, has brought the long-running border dispute between Morocco and Algeria back to the forefront after asserting on that Morocco has documents proving its sovereignty over the so-called mineral-rich “Eastern Sahara” region. By raising this issue now, Morocco may be attempting to pressure France, whose relations with Algeria have deteriorated, into explicitly recognizing Moroccan sovereignty over Western Sahara. [Faouzi, Adil], 2024-03-12, Morocco World News, [Morocco]

Togoland: Germany’s first and smallest African colony. Germany’s 30-year rule in Togoland (actual Ghana and Togo) seemed relatively peaceful compared to other German colonies, and Togoland was promoted as "a model colony." But it was a self-serving myth for German colonial administrators. [Nebe, Cai], 2024-03-18, DW, [Ghana/Togo]

Crimes Against Humanity

Against Erasure. A unique, stunning collection of images of Palestine in the late 19th and early 20th centuries and a testament to the vibrancy of Palestinian society prior to occupation. This book tells the story, in both English and Arabic, of a land full of people—people with families, hopes, dreams, and a deep connection to their home—before Israel’s establishment in 1948, known to Palestinians as the Nakba, or “catastrophe.” [El-Kurd, Mohammed], 2024-02, [Palestine (Permanent Observer to the UN)]

Death Penalty

DRC: Reinstating executions shows a callous disregard for human rights. Congo’s government wants to resume executions, after a hiatus of two decades, in a bid to combat armed groups and gang violence, Tigere Chagutah, Amnesty International’s Regional Director for East and Southern Africa, said: [Amnesty International], 2024-03-15, Amnesty International, [Democratic Republic of the Congo]

Decolonization

Belgium still struggling with its colonial ghosts. By failing to publish a report on the nation's colonial history, Belgium signals it is not yet ready to shake off its past. [Jochecová, Ketrin], 2024-03-30, POLITICO, [Belgium]
Destruction of documents

Operation Legacy: How Britain covered up its colonial crimes. The World learned in 2011 of the secret British policy called Operation Legacy that was implemented in the 1950s. Its goal was to remove or destroy incriminating documents from former colonies in the months before each one became politically independent. This policy had an impact far and wide, and was implemented in British colonies throughout the Caribbean, Asia and Africa. [Diptée, Audra], 2024-03-18, The Conversation, [United Kingdom]

Detention

Rights advocates denounce 'systemic abuse' in Israeli prisons. In the shadow of the war raging in Gaza, record numbers of Palestinian detainees are filling Israeli prisons, where they face "systemic abuse" and torture, rights advocates warn, calling for international action. This wave of disinformation... [Observers team], 2024-03-15, The Observers - France 24, [Indonesia]

Economic, Social and Cultural Rights

Rethinking Institutional Repositories: Innovations in Management, Collections, and Inclusion. Librarians have grown accustomed to making the case for why their institution needs an IR, and based on the data, it appears that they have largely been successful in making these arguments to administrators. But if the question of “why” has been answered, the more fundamental question of “how” remains: How should libraries use their IRs most effectively to benefit their universities and their community? [Josh C. Cromwel], 2023-12-14, [Worldwide]

The Quipu Project. 272,000 women and 21,000 men were sterilised in the 90’s in Peru. Thousands have claimed this happened without their consent, but until now they have been repeatedly silenced and denied justice. After almost 20 years their voices can finally be heard through this interactive documentary, which connects a free telephone line in Peru to this website. In Spanish with English written translation [Court, Maria; Lerner, Rosemarie], 2024-03, [Peru]

[Milton, Vanessa], 2024-03-10, ABC News, [Australia]

Don't forget Leonard Peltier. Leonard Peltier is the longest imprisoned Indigenous person in the United States. Even after almost 47 years behind bars he is considered a political prisoner by Amnesty International, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, National Congress of American Indians, the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Center for Human Rights, Archbishop Desmond Tutu and Rev. Jesse Jackson, among many others who believe he should be immediately released. [Nicholls, Will], 2024-03-16, Nation, [United States of America]

How Virginia Used Segregation Law to Erase Native Americans. Virginia’s Racial Integrity Act belongs to a settler colonial tradition extending back to the early 1600s. Some white Virginians, though, weren’t satisfied. They worried about a loophole in the law that would dilute the purity of white “blood.” Leading white supremacists had wanted the Racial Integrity Act to solidify Virginia’s black-white racial binary. To do so, they called for the Act to erase the presence of Native people. Some used the Act to do just this, engaging in a form of “bureaucratic genocide” to re-cast Native people as Black, rendering them less visible in the historical record. [Craig, Ashley R.; Smithers, Gregory], 2024-03-20, TIME, [United States of America]

Narrating Heritage. This book brings important original ethnographic research and unique case studies together in a coherent and cohesive way to examine patterns and differences of approaches to heritage. Stolen Pieces of Palestine: Archival Responsibility in the Case of Displaced Archives. The Israeli-Palestinian conflict has led to the displacement of thousands of Palestinians from their homes, leaving behind furniture, books, documents, and other items relating to their cultural heritage. These items were captured by the invading Israeli forces and sealed away in their archives and libraries, where they remain to this day. Since this first phase of pillaging in 1948, Israel has continued to sequester away pieces of Palestinian cultural heritage which they collected during the Six-Day War and its repeated invasions into the Gaza Strip. This article examines the ways in which these items, particularly records and books, were seized by Israel and integrated into its archival infrastructure.
Through acquisition, arrangement, description, and access, Israel and its archivists hold the power to create, transform, or destroy what remains of Palestine's documentary heritage. [White, Connor],

War Crimes

ICC Reporting Key to Catalyze National Justice. The International Criminal Court (ICC) is a court of last resort, stepping in only when national authorities are unwilling or unable to do so. This is a key legal pillar known as the principle of complementarity. But because the ICC can only take on a few cases in a particular situation, comprehensive justice will invariably mean that the ICC and national authorities will need to work closely together. Transitional and Restorative Justice in Post Conflict Countries, Liberia. This episode discusses the Liberia's Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) process, and transitional justice and peacebuilding in Liberia, a nation marked by a tumultuous history of civil wars from 1989-1997 and 1999-2003. Discussion includes the critical role of memorialisation and the involvement of regional bodies in supporting Liberia's reconciliation journey. We confront the pressing issue of disconnect between youth and historical memory, emphasising the urgency of preserving Liberia's past to safeguard its future. Empowering women and promoting gender equality in Asia and Africa through Memory of the World. Throughout history, women have played pivotal roles in shaping the political, economic, scientific and cultural landscapes of societies worldwide despite tremendous obstacles. However, they remain largely underrepresented in the archives. This month of International Women's Day, UNESCO highlights their achievements in the documentary heritage inscriptions of Asia and Africa. [UNESCO], 2024-03-08, UNESCO, [Worldwide]

Exhibition | Becoming Visible, Smithsonian American Women's History Museum Launches First Digital Exhibition. Women's stories have been in a constant state of becoming visible, never quite coming into focus in American history. Even though historians have long documented the lives and work of women, their contributions have vanished from most popular narratives of U.S. history. Explore how five women's stories have been recorded and remembered, and join our effort to expand the story of America. [Smithsonian Institution], 2024-03-07, [United States of America]

Archiving “sensitive” social media data: ‘In Her Shoes’, a case study. Social media play an increasingly significant role in activist and social movements around the globe. Archiving social media is a relatively new phenomenon and an area which needs greater clarity, understanding and uniformity. When it comes to archiving and cataloguing sensitive social media collections, such as personal abortion stories, the process is even more ambiguous. [Grimes, Lorraine; Cassidy, Kathryn;
