Collaborative Design through partnerships with Indigenous communities: the Mukurtu CMS Hubs and Spokes Model

Monica Galassi
@LaMonicaGalassi
I ACKNOWLEDGE THE TRADITIONAL OWNERS OF THE LANDS AND WATERS WE GATHER ON TODAY AND THE RICHNESS AND DIVERSITY OF AUSTRALIA’S ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER PEOPLES, CULTURES AND LANGUAGES.

I PAY MY RESPECT TO ALL ELDERS PAST AND PRESENT.
It is also important that appropriate staff are on hand who have skills to work with communities. Staff need to have cultural awareness/competency to engage with elders from regional/remote communities.

“There is a real desire to tell stories from an Aboriginal perspective of the history of the Aborigines Protection and Welfare Boards. To record oral histories and be able to tell your own story. The community would like to find photographs and letters that are historical and have access to them, but also collect images and letters [...]. They would like access to complimentary heritage material from institutions”

They took this language and wrote it down [at a time] when we were not allowed to speak it” (Bundjalung Elder)

“Collections are currently dispersed, the community is aware of material that was previously recorded for ABC films - where did these materials go?”

Context is really important in providing access to historical materials. People need to understand what the material is that they are looking at and understand who collected it. For example, for people to understand that material was collected by non-Aboriginal people. The question of ‘What was going on then?’ is important and then – what does that mean now?

From https://indigenousarchives.net/
The 5 Dimensions of Reconciliation

- Race Relations
- Equality and Equity
- Institutional Integrity
- Historical Acceptance
- Unity
“In sharing this concept of ‘imagining’, what we are asking non-Indigenous readers to do is step outside of the normative expectations about how the documents written for, by, and about Indigenous peoples ought to be organised, and instead acknowledge the reasons why Indigenous peoples might prefer to develop their own approaches.”

‘Sydney Elders Exhibition’ at SLNSW by Jonathan Jones. Photo by Joy Lay (Artlink Magazine)
Visit to Oregon Mukurtu Hub, August 2018
Thank you