The International Council on Archives (ICA) is an international organization established for the purpose of facilitating collaboration and development of the archives of various countries. Its members include archives, professional organizations and individuals from over 190 countries/territories. EASTICA, ICA's East Asian regional branch, whose membership covers the archival communities in countries such as Japan, China, South Korea and Mongolia, has been active since its foundation in 1993 in information exchange and professional training within the region through seminars and workshops.

This year, the 14th EASTICA General Conference and Seminar (EASTICA 2019) will be held in Tokyo, under the theme of "Archives Today and Tomorrow: Prospering as a Diversity of Records Dramatically Increase".

We are in the era of which the nature of records/information has been changing. They are generated and used in a variety of ways, with a gigantic volume and at a tremendous velocity due to the ever-evolving digital technology; and the technology which deals with the extreme amount of data has also changed our society.

Given the situation, EASTICA 2019 will be the opportunity to discuss the shifting role of archives and archivists who confront these difficult circumstances.

Dr. Anthea Seles (Keynote 1, speaker)

(Secretary General of the ICA)

"A Brave New World: Artificial Intelligence and Archives"

Mr. Laurence Brewer (Keynote 2, speaker)

(CRO of National Archives & Records Administration, US)

"Transforming Records Management to Build the Digital Archives of Tomorrow"

Prof. Takano Akihiko (Keynote 3, speaker)

(National Institute of Informatics)

"Can Digital Technology Open the Archives?
--- The Impact of Japan Search"

Prof. Sugimoto Shigeo (Moderator of PD)

(University of Tsukuba)

*Please note that Keynote titles are subject to change.
